I have reviewed this complaint and feel these concerns would be best addressed by the Office of the Executive Inspector General (OEIG) <http://www2.illinois.gov/oeig/Pages/default.aspx> . Examples of allegations of violations by public employees that may be investigated by the OEIG include, but are not limited to: fraud, abuse of authority, corruption, theft of state property, improper use of state time, property, or other resources for prohibited political purposes, bid rigging, improper time reporting, and other forms of misuse of public property, equipment, or other assets. Complaints may be filed orally or preferably in writing.
