INFRACTION NARRATIVE:

SEE ATTACHED PAGE

On Friday, January 30, 1987, this reporting officer was advised that two patrol officers had worn blue jeans to the January 28, 1987, training seminar on "Use of Force" held at the Charleston Motor Inn. Wearing blue jeans to Department sponsored training is a direct violation of a general order issued by Sheriff Kimball.(see minutes from patrol meeting 12-18-86)

Proper attire while attending Department sponsored training will include dress clothing or Departmental uniforms. Blue jeans, Levis, denim pants, collarless t-shirts, and other clothes of like description will not be permitted unless otherwise authorized by the Sheriff.

After further investigation this reporting officer found that Officer William Powell and Sgt. Darrell Cox had, in fact, worn blue jeans to the "Use of Force" seminar on January 28, 1987.

On January 30, 1987, this reporting officer spoke with Sgt. Darrell Cox concerning his wearing blue jeans to the "Use of Force" seminar on 01-28-87. Sgt. Cox stated that he had worn blue jeans to the seminar, but stated that he wasn't able to wear dress slacks because of his broken toe(Sgt. Cox has been on light duty assignment in the correctional center since January 20, 1987, due to a broken toe).
