I am not attending on March 1st.....my husband and I had a discussion and he knows that no matter what gets spoken in that session nothing will change but the outcome will be further damaging to me.

I will attend my committee meetings and board meetings.

My husband is an incredibly successful businesses man and knows that most of what occurs is time wasted....which is why I wanted to leave....did nothing for me except create negativity.

I will just take a Xanax before each meeting....submit votes and leave....the only thing this board wants is for me is to sit down and shut up so they can continue their bullshit uninterrupted
