Hey Brianna,

I have a report involving you for a domestic issue. Before filing anything, since I had your email handy, I thought I'd reach out to hear your side of what happened and see what the situation is now. If you don't mind getting back to me, I'd appreciate it. Thanks.

Hey Heather,

Sorry to just get back to you. My email from home doesn't always like to show me my new emails. Unfortunately, there's not really anything that can be done about the community service. The statute requires a minimum of 30 hours for that particular offense that can't be waived. If he can't get them done

The way these situations often work is, a report is forwarded to our office and we make the decision on what charges to file, if any. Normally, I just have to go off of the report, but since I'm familiar with you, I wanted to reach out and hear what happened from your perspective and what the situation is now.
